Spectacular Bond: Reaching the Child with Autism (Paperback)

By Marion Blank Phd, Suzanne Goh MD, Susan Deland

Msb Press, United States, 2013. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 204 x 132 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Implemented at the Columbia University Medical Center, Spectacular Bond (is a unique home-based behavioral intervention designed for children with autism. Within a few weeks, significant improvements in behavior can be achieved, including more meaningful social interaction, diminished temper tantrums, reductions in stimming, and greater capacity for self-control and sustained attention. The core of the program is reflected in its title - Spectacular Bond. Through a detailed step-by-step plan, the program sets out to reframe the parent-child bond-a relationship that typically runs on auto pilot but is seriously affected by autism. By bringing the intricacies into consciousness, the parent can remold the interaction to create a spectacular bond that transforms the life of the child and all members of the family. Susan Deland, one of the book s authors, has used the program successfully with her daughter Diane: When Diane was first diagnosed nearly ten years ago, I received many pessimistic warnings from professionals. But I believed that with the right environment, Diane had the potential for a bright and independent future. Dr. Blank both shared that...
