PART I. CHAPTER I. THE GENERAL CONDITION OF THE FENS, AND HOW THEY BECAME SILTED UP. A Reference to the Maps which are prefixed will show the geographical position of the Fens. It will be seen that the district is bounded on all parts by History highlands, in the form of a horse-shoe, which makes c. 33, p. 172. it like a bay, from that point of land about Hunstanton in Norfolk to Wyntonhorpe in Lincolnshire. The general condition of all parts of the low country, the various strata which underlie the surface, and the objects which are discovered in them, sufficiently prove that during the lapse of ages great changes in the surface have taken place, that the level has materially altered, that forest-trees / once grew there luxuriantly, and that the climate, the flora, and...
